

Child Services Franchise Owners Very Satisfied With Investment

by Eric Stites

June 4, 2007 - In a new report released today by Franchise Business Review, an overwhelming percentage of franchisees owning child service-related franchises are very satisfied with their business investment. Overall, 90% of franchise owners gave their franchise system a positive rating. The report also indicates that the majority of franchisees are meeting or exceeding their financial expectations.

The child services franchise sector has been extremely popular and growing rapidly over the last few years," says Eric Stites, Founder and President of Franchise Business Review. "It's great to see that these franchise owners are generally very happy and making money. Many of these opportunities allow people to escape the daily grind of the corporate world and pursue a career they are passionate about."

"Franchisee satisfaction is such a critical factor," continued Stites. "Investing in a franchise offers many people the opportunity to be their own boss and lowers the risks associated with starting your own business."
